

1. No, not that I am aware of. The latest drivers just will not download, but the existing drivers work just fine.
2. right before I posted the issue. A few days ago.
3. There have been three windows quality updates installed this month. I uninstalled all of them, got the same issue, and reinstalled them, as they did not seem to make any difference.
4. desktop
5. home/office setup
6. no and yes.
7. latest stable version of Win10
8. original
9. I tried multiple times to download these from Intel, a 3rd party driver updater, the “download new driver” function in the properties tab, and with 3 different browsers (brave, firefox, and edge) with zero pos results.
10. yes. I rarely use bluetooth or wireless on the computer as I am hardwired throughout. But other non-computer wireless devices in the house continue to work. And I did use a bluetooth speaker the day before these drivers were available and everything worked just fine.
11. No, I was hesitant to do this, in fear that I would not be able to re-load either new or existing/older drivers.

These are the drivers:

On the Bluetooth driver, it says “Are you sure you want to update from version 22.90.2.1 to version 22.90.2.1?” and when I click yes, a dialog box appears offering me a choice or repair, replace, etc. So I assumed the download went through, as the version numbers are the same and it is NOT downloading, but offering me these options. However, when I scroll down on the DSA screen after it has scanned my system, it shows version 22.80.0.4 as being installed and that an update is still available.
